The students of Grade 3 aced the art of critiquing like a pro for a unique class activity called 'Popcorn Couch Critics'. The students were asked to give their reviews for the two movies called My First Cycle and Nidhi's Lunch Box. The process of evaluating others work and ideas is an integral part of every educational and professional practice. The art of critiquing is being able to see the work of others with an impartial set of eyes and suggest improvements and offer new ideas. Not only is it important for us to experience critiques of our own work, but it's also important to critique others. When we critique the work of others, we not only offer helpful suggestions but we also learn to find things that can be applied to our own work. We see how others solve problems and if their solutions are better than our own, we can borrow them. As a result, we all grow.
